Zealous Managers Fail To Get Together On Working Agreement. St. Louis Club Incorporated This Week.

The opening of the 1920 Hawthorn Season is just around the corner and the "zealous" managers are trying to get the fans that some of them appear to be able to see the beginning around the angle, therefore the rumor is out that the "zealous" managers are not in agreement on the working agreement of the 1920 baseball club. It was announced at the close of last season.

The old chronic inability of the "zealous" club owners to get together seems to be the cause. The plan was to form an organization of clubs in Chicago, Detroit, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, with the Cuban Stars and Dayton, Ohio Monarchs as traveling teams. This movement 1920 is concerned unless the managers can adjust their differences over a working agreement, which seems to be a small matter.

Another cause is that of C. I. Taylor of Indianapolis, whom some have been trying to eliminate from baseball, has the lease on the American Association grounds to play there when the league comes in on the road this season. Taylor is against Foster's plans, yet knows baseball men informed the Argus last week that several of Foster's star players have decided to bludge and will go east; probably to Philadelphia, which has a park controlled exclusively by Negroes.

Mills Refuses to Talk.

Articles of incorporation were filed this week by the St. Louis Glens Baseball and Amusement Company. Among the incorporators are John Mills and John H. Symes, with 100 shares each, Lorenzo S. Cobb and Charles Mills with 14 each.

On Thursday it was at first believed that Stetson was dead, but it was later found that his back was badly injured and cut from broken glass. His condition is favorable at present, but he can not yet leave home yet. Mr. Stetson was an attaché at Judge Grimm's Court in St. Louis, from December, 1911, to July, 1920, excepting the time he was with the 32nd Division in France. His brother, Weston, has been at his bedside, in the Noyes Hospital, since the accident.

Mr. Baldwin announced to his audience a program of delegacies to the socialist convention, which would up his three days session here, that he had been working in steel mills all over the country. He had been doing this, he said, to get a firsthand acquaintance with conditions. He added that some of his experiences were more interesting than those he underwent in jail.
